One person was injured and damage estimated by state police of the Gettysburg sub-station at $250 was caused in an automobile accident one mile north of York Springs on the Harrisburg road at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, according to a state police report.

Washington, Feb. 16 (P)—President Truman told Congress today he will ask more money for military assistance for Greece and Turkey.

Mr. Truman gave this word to the Legislators in a report on use of the $400,000,000 they voted last year to help the Greeks and Turks resist Communism. He did not say how much more will be asked. Last year's fund was $300,000,000 for Greece and $100,000,000 for Turkey.

Washington, Feb. 16 (P)—The Supreme court today unanimously upheld Federal rent controls.

Bury Little Cowboy With His Boots On

Seattle, Feb. 16 (P)—A blonde, four-year-old cowboy will be buried Tuesday as he wanted—with his boots on.

For three months 20 doctors tried to save the life of the youngster, Lowell Lynn Elkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elkins, Seattle. His illness was diagnosed as leukemia.

As a last resort radioactive phosphorus was flown here a week ago from the University of California. Two dosages brought no result.

Last Friday the tiny lad, who loved horses and the out-of-doors died.

His desire to be a cowboy grew during his brief life on his parents' stock ranch at Wilson Creek, Wash. On every possible occasion he wore his black suede chaps and vest, black and white boots, miniature six-shooter, green-plaid shirt and studded belt.

Lowell's last wish was that he be buried wearing his beloved cowboy suit.

DR. SPONSELLER SUBSTITUTES AS GUEST SPEAKER

About 200 were present for the fourth union vesper service which was held Sunday evening in St. Paul's Lutheran church. Because of illness, the Rev. Dr. Henry I. Stahr, president of Hood college, who was the scheduled speaker, could not be present. He sent as his substitute, the Rev. Dr. Edwin H. Dr. Sponseller said: "Today, the great challenge of the modern world is between two ways of life, communism and democracy. Both say they are interested in the good of man. Christianity, however, gives a spiritual foundation to democracy, which emphasizes the worth of the individual through its basic tenet and emphasis on the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man."

The service was in charge of the host pastor, the Rev. David S. Kammerer. The Rev. John C. Brumbach, pastor of Christ Reformed church, had secured the guest speaker and presented him to the congregation. During the offering, St. Paul's choir sang, "The Old Rugged Cross." ## SWEEP TOWN STREETS TODAY

Conditions approached something nearer to normal today in Gettysburg, particularly in the business district where the borough's new "sno-loder" was used effectively this winter in taking the snow away from the curbs.

Borough employees today began sweeping the streets in this section, which was almost free of ice and snow after the rain and warmer temperatures. There was a considerable accumulation of cinders and other dirt on the streets which borough employees removed today.

Side streets in the borough were in much better condition as the result of the milder weather, although considerable snow still remained against the curbs in many places.

Gutters ran like millstreams Saturday and Sunday with the melting snow.

The dry condition of the highways on Sunday and the almost spring-like weather brought out many Sunday motorists. State police of the Gettysburg sub-station said travel on highways in Adams county was heavier than in several weeks.

Report Russian Puppet State Established In North Korea

By ROY ROBERTS
Seoul, Feb. 16 (P)—A high American official said today a Russian puppet government has been established in north Korea. He declared it has an army, a flag and a constitution—in open defiance of international agreements.

The official charged that establishment of the government was timed to coincide with the United Nations commission's recent announcement of failure of its mission to Korea.

He made his charges at a news conference, but asked that he not be named.

Russian occupation officials are charged with governing north Korea. Americans administer south Korea.

The U.N. commission was refused entry into the Russian zone to plan nationwide elections preliminary to giving Korea a self government.

Chairman K. P. S. Menon is to report the commission's failure to the assembly next week.

The American source said "we have ample information" that an army estimated at 200,000 north Koreans is equipped with Russian materials, medium tanks and light planes.

He expressed belief the Russians were planning to act unilaterally in north Korea, regardless of any U.N. decision. He added that formation of the puppet government had revived speculation among U.S. military officials that the Russians may suddenly withdraw their occupation troops. He said such a move would be an effort to force similar withdrawal of American troops from the southern zone.

A radio broadcast from Pyongyang, Soviet occupation headquarters, announced creation of the "North Korean Peoples Army," and a constitution which would establish the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea.

The Gettysburg Sportsmen's Association will hold its regular February meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the club house on Walnut street, south of the high school building, formerly the Gettysburg Rod and Gun club property.

Plans will be made for the shooting match to be held Saturday, February 21, at 1:30 p. m. The charter for the organization will also be closed at the meeting. Anyone interested in becoming a member is invited to attend the meeting.

The club house has been improved recently with a new roof while the interior has been repainted.

MORE THAN 500 ATTEND UNITY SERVICE HERE

"The ideal of brotherhood for all is the American dream" the Rev. J. Resler Shultz, pastor of the First Methodist church, Altoona, declared Sunday evening at the annual Brotherhood week public service held at the Majestic theater. More than 500 were present for the program.

"America is far more than an event in time, it is an interpretation of experience, a way of life, a way based on the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of man. Protestant, Catholic and Jew agree that this is a world held in the hands of God, and that we as men are the children of God. Thus we reach the belief that this is not my world, but our world; not my rights but our rights; not my God but our God."

Do Not Deny Others

"The American ideal of brotherhood means that a man cannot take for himself a right which he refuses to others. It is the basis of America's dream that rights are given to all. The very moment you reach out to take a right, at that moment you guarantee that right to everyone else."

"We are living in a marvelous age, for we have the chance to aid the world in advancing toward the dream of one world and the brotherhood of man," said Rev. Shultz.

Dr. Norman E. Richardson, co-chairman of the Adams County Round Table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, which sponsored the program, acted as presiding officer.

College Choir Sings

Two numbers were presented by the Gettysburg college choir under the direction of Parker B. Wagnild. They were, "So Soberly and Softly," and "In Heaven Above," a Norwegian Folk Melody, in which the solo was sung by Thomas Hunter.

Dr. Kenneth Smoke was pianist for the program during which the audience sang "America," "O God, Beneath Thy Guiding Hand" and "America, The Beautiful."

Dr. Howard S. Fox, pastor of the local Trinity Evangelical Reformed church, closed the meeting with the Misspach benediction. On the platform were, besides the speaker, Doctor Fox, Doctor Richardson and Doctor Smoke, Mares Sherman, co-chairman of the Round Table and Mrs. William Sundermyer, past co-chairman of the Round Table.

Here And There News Collected At Random

The "Washington Background" column in today's Philadelphia Inquirer contains the following:

"Washington correspondents were thrown into a dither on Lincoln's Birthday when their news tickers began tapping out without date line or other identification criticism of the President of the United States, attributed to the Chicago Times, so abusive they could hardly believe their eyes."

"The cheek of every American," the quote said, "must tingle with shame as he reads the silly, flat and dishwatery utterances of the man who has to be pointed out to intelligent foreigners as President of the United States."

"Then the ticker went on to quote the correspondent of the London Times:

"The ceremony was rendered ludicrous by some of the sallies of that poor President. Anything more dull or commonplace would not be easy to produce."

"The ticker then switched to another story.

"Inquiries developed that the quotes were from a feature story the United Press had prepared for Lincoln's Birthday. The President mentioned was Abraham Lincoln and the 'silly, flat and dishwatery utterances' were the Gettysburg Address. The feature was prepared for a radio circuit and by mistake it was put on the news ticker."

"Anyhow, it proved that newspapermen and newspapers speak more respectfully of the Chief Executive nowadays than they did in Lincoln's time."

When Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vaughn, Baltimore street, were in Florida recently they visited "Moose Haven" home for the aged sponsored by the Loyal

CLOSE BRIDGE AT ICE JAM

Pittsburgh, Feb. 16 (AP)—An ice gorge on the Allegheny river, estimated to be 16 to 20 miles long, jammed against the East Brady bridge on route 68 today.

The 300-foot span was closed to traffic and route 68 also was closed as water backed up into low areas of East Brady, Parkers Landing and the Sugar Creek area. State police, maintaining a vigil at the scene said they did not believe the bridge would be seriously threatened unless the huge jam gave way suddenly.

Meanwhile, fears of a flood threat abated in the Pittsburgh district. The Ohio, Monongahela and Allegheny rivers crested at 24.6 feet yesterday at Pittsburgh's famous point. That was four inches below flood stage and one to two feet lower than expected.

Weather observers said with the bulk of the snow cover on the Allegheny and Monongahela river waterbeds removed, there would not be another rise unless a heavy rainfall occurred. Only a light rain is expected in the area, possible tomorrow. The temperature was expected to be between 40 and 55 degrees in most of Pennsylvania today.

THOMAS IS TIRED BEING BOTHERED

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Senator Elmer Thomas told Senators investigating grain and cotton speculation today that he doesn't want to be "bothered" any more about his "private activities."

The Oklahoma Democrat, who has admitted speculating on commodity markets, wrote a Senate Appropriations subcommittee that that applies, too, to his assistants.

If he or they are "bothered," he said, "Then I shall consider such activity unjustified and unwarranted attacks upon myself and my assistants."

And he said he would regard any further interference with the business of his Senate office as "an insult to the sovereign state of Oklahoma."

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.), has been inquiring generally into speculation. It began the investigation after President Truman denounced speculation on commodities and blamed it for sharp rises last year in grain prices.

As a result of the committee's inquiry, Secretary Anderson has made public names of speculators reported to the agriculture department by brokers. These included Thomas, the Senator's wife, Mrs. Edith Thomas, and a member of his secretarial staff, Miss Beth Gage.

GRAINS OPEN HIGHER TODAY

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—Grains opened higher in Chicago today, continuing a rally begun Saturday.

Other major commodities in the nation's market also were strong. New York stock market prices were slightly higher in relatively light trading.

Retail food stores continued to feature lower meat prices, but government and livestock experts warned that these price cuts may not stick because of shortages due later in the year.

Wheat, belivewher of the food commodity markets, opened two to four cents a bushel higher in Chicago. Corn was up similarly and oats up slightly less. Soybeans, which have sagged the most since the big price break which began 13 days ago, also were up.

Hogs were higher at Chicago in trading which was unexpectedly light.

Cotton was up between $1 and $2 a bale in New York and New Orleans. Cottonseed oil and hides also were up slightly, but rubber fell down a bit.

Economists are watching this week's trading closely for a clue to the final meaning of the break in commodity prices.

Important To Check On Daffodil Roots

It takes daffodils at least eleven weeks to root well in the cold frame or an outdoor pit before they are ready for bringing indoors, where for the next month or so they should have 50 degrees. There is no other way of telling how far root formation has progressed than by removing the pots. There will be some marked differences between the bulbs even if they belong to the same variety, and that means examining every one.

One glance will tell you if the rooting has progressed far enough to bring the plants indoors.

ASSAILS ARMY ON CHAIR ORDER

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Rep. Engel (R-Mich.), criticized today army plans to buy 161,172 custom built chairs for officers.

Had he not protested, Engel said in a speech prepared for his colleagues, the army would have paid an average of $26 each for the chairs, instead of $9.45. That, he added, would have been "throwing away" $2,567,000.

Engel is chairman of an appropriation subcommittee considering the army's budget. He has made several critical speeches since Congress reconvened. Some colleagues are interpreting them as hinting a big cut in army funds for next year.

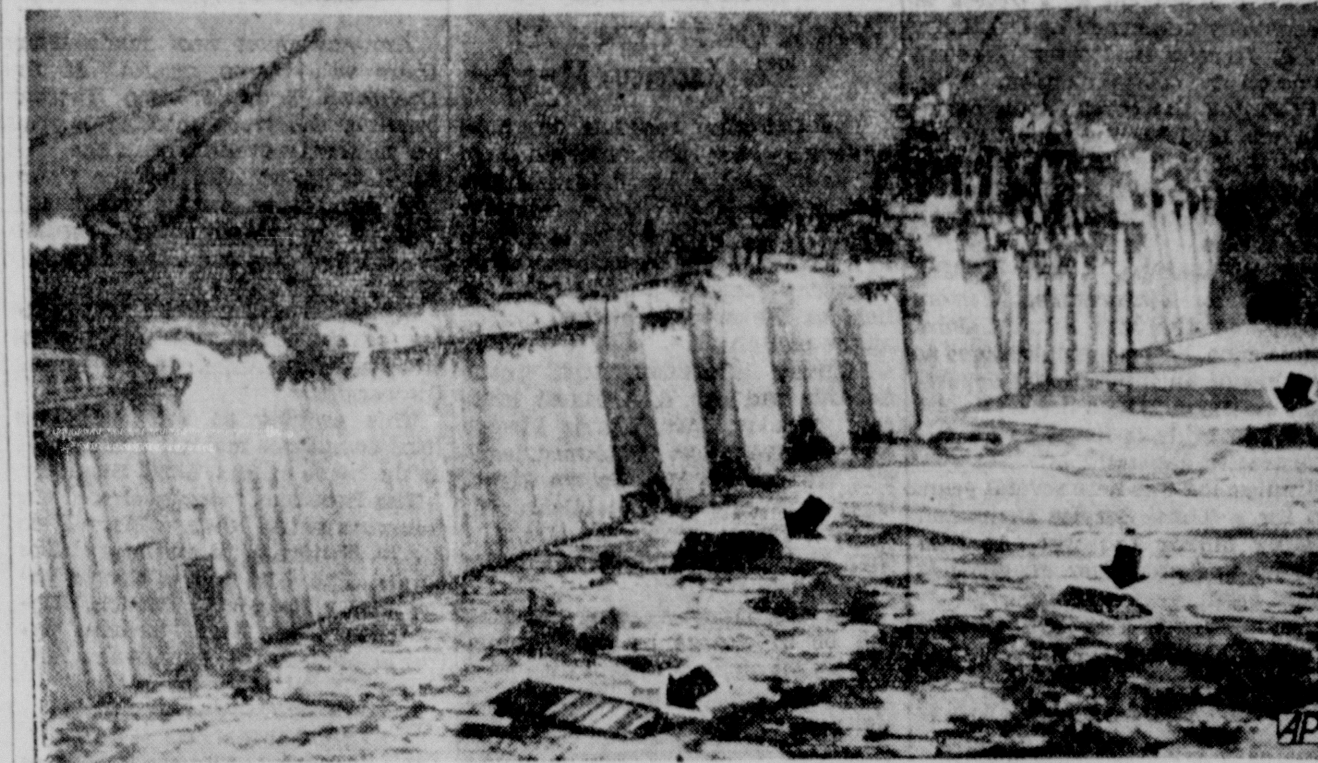

As related by Engel, this is the story of the chairs: They were asked last spring on specifications "so complicated" they covered four typewritten pages. The bids ranged from $20 to $33.

The Aluminum Cooking Utensil company of New Kensington, Pa., offered to furnish a similar chair for $12.75 but it did not meet specifications.

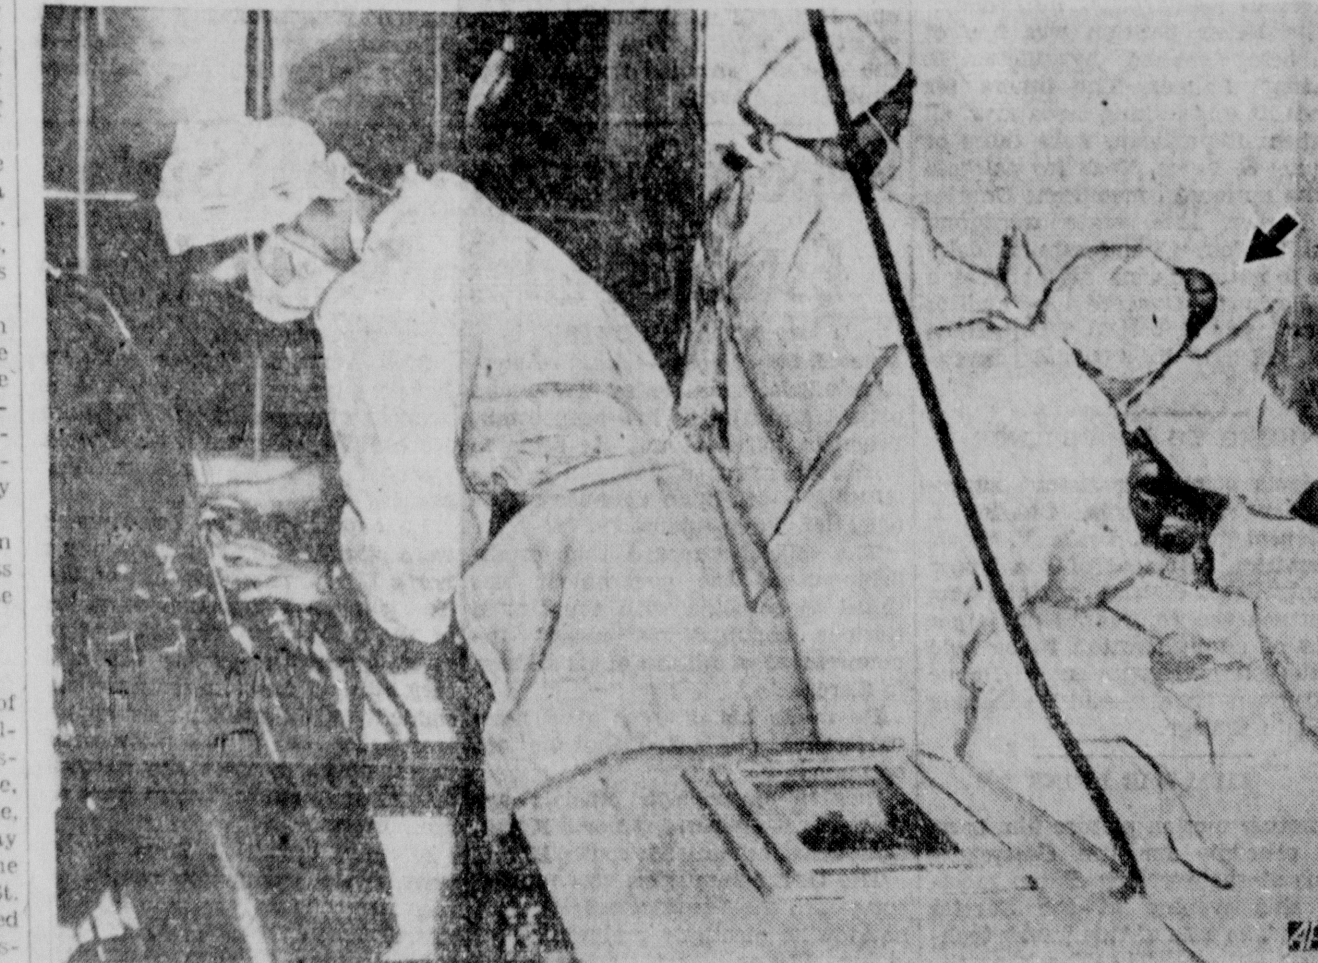

A company agent was told by the acting quartermaster general, whom Engel did not name, that "any salesman who attempts to sell the army items because they are cheaper was making the wrong approach."

BULLETS HALT LEOPARD FIVE BY 53-46 SCORE

A substantial lead gained in the first quarter by an all-Gettysburg team and successfully maintained throughout the better part of the last three periods by another outfit, plus two substitutions, enabled the Gettysburg college cagers to chalk up their ninth victory of the season here Saturday night at the expense of Lafayette 53-46.

The Bullets hopped off into the lead at the start and never were headed. The closest the Leopards came was late in the second period when they cut the Bullets' margin to 27-23.

Coach Bream's starting lineup of Boehner, Fair, Fissel, March and Fidler gave a brilliant performance in the first period and their deadly shooting and fire defensive work gave the locals a 20-7 margin at the end of the first quarter. All broke into the scoring in a series of sensational shots that completely swept the Leopards off their feet.

Leopards Rally

After a free toss by Fidler to open the second period Lafayette spurred for seven straight points on a pair of fouls by Zippel, a single charity heave by Duym and goals by Jordan and Milne. Coach Bream then yanked his starting outfit in favor of Harris, Lewis, Pure, Nowak and Ogden.

The scoring was nip and tuck with the Leopards cutting the margin to 27-23 but then the Bullets rallied on successive goals by Lewis, Ogden and Harris and a free toss by the latter to hold a 34-25 advantage at half time.

In the third period the scoring slowed up somewhat as the teams battled on even terms. Harris' goal just before the round ended hiked the Bullets' margin to 43-35.

Warrick tallied a goal for Lafayette to open the final period but Boehner retaliated with a pair of goals. Milne landed a long shot before Harris netted a free throw. Milne made good on two free tosses with about four minutes of play gone. Lewis netted a beautiful side shot as the Bream-men started to stall. Lafayette fought desperately for the ball and in the process fouled March and Harris who landed free tosses. Biri broke away for an enemy goal and then Smith sank a pair of free tosses to make the score 52-46 with less than two minutes of play remaining. Gorman's foul was the only score the remainder of the contest.

Navy Here Friday

Bud Boehner paced the well-balanced Gettysburg attack with 11 points. Each participant for the Orange and Blue gave a fine performance. Zippel connected for 13 points for the invaders while Milne proved an outstanding performer.

On Wednesday the Bullets journeyed to Carlisle to meet Dickinson and on Friday night met Navy here.

TO GO ON TRIAL

Lake George, N. Y., Feb. 16 (AP)—John G. Finn was scheduled to appear today in Warren county court in preparation for trial tomorrow on the charge he assaulted a 23-year-old New York city nurse shortly before her mysterious, vacation drowning.

Valpey To Succeed Harlow At Harvard

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 16 (AP)—The Herculean labor of restoring ancient Harvard to its once lofty intercollegiate football peak has been placed on the shoulders of 32-year-old Art Valpey, who has had but three years of varsity coaching experience as an assistant at the University of Michigan.

Valpey's acceptance of a three-year contract as successor to the veteran Dick Harlow, who resigned because of ill health two months ago, was announced last night by Athletic Director William J. Bingham. The salary terms were not disclosed.

"After long and careful examination of numerous candidates, I am convinced that Arthur Valpey has a sound background of football and the necessary force and enthusiasm to put over this knowledge to young and eager football players," Bingham said.

As a Crisler aide on last year's Rose Bowl championship Michigan staff, Valpey tutored the Wolverine end squad. During the two previous seasons he served as a line coach and chief scout.

GHS HOST TO SHIPPENSBURG HERE TUESDAY

Despite suffering a 32-17 defeat at Shippensburg last month, the Shippensburg high Greyhounds are hopeful of springing a surprise at the expense of the Gettysburg high cagers when the teams clash here Tuesday evening in a second half game of the South Penn league.

Shippensburg has been coming along nicely in recent games and has showed a much better offense. Last week they were barely beaten 47-45 by Hershey on the latter's court.

The Maroons cannot afford to take the game lightly if they hope to keep alive their championship hopes. Coach Forney's outfit needs a clean sweep of their remaining games unless upsets take place among the other contenders.

Shippensburg is expected to start the following lineup: Beckenbaugh and Bennett, forwards; Lynch, center, and Schwank and J. Angle, guards.

Lineup intact

No change is anticipated in the Maroon lineup which will probably include Bushman and Westerdahl, forwards; Donaldson, center, and Fair and Eisenhart guards.

Coach Howard Shoemaker's scrubs will attempt to get back into their winning stride in the preliminary game at 7 o'clock. The local jayvees won 35-22 at Shippensburg.

Carlisle, unbeaten in second half games, will be host to Chambersburg in an important tilt Tuesday evening. In other games Waynesboro will play at Hanover and Mechanicsburg at Hershey.

The New York Athletic club's 80th annual games at Madison Square Garden last Saturday night revised the indoor picture somewhat and produced several interesting impressions, including these:

1. Gerry Karver is the second best miler in the country today and will be the man to beat in the scramble for the National Indoor Mile title vacated by Gilbert Dodds, sidelined with the mumps.

2. Curtis Stone, former teammate of Karver at Penn State, has developed into the best two-miler in these parts since Greg Rice and, while there is no indoor title at that distance, should be able to retain his championship at three miles.

Herb McKenley, the long-striding Jamaican, finally has learned how to run on the boards and must be counted as a favorite to dethrone Villanova's George Guida at 600 yards.

Karver, who owns the National AAU outdoor 1,500-meter title as well as the NCAA mile championship, captured the Baxter mile easily Saturday night in the unimpressive time of 4:15.

Stone, who now runs for the Shanahan Catholic club of Philadelphia, took the Toussaint two-mile by 35 yards on 9:04.2, fastest time for the distance since Rice, holder of the World Indoor record of 8:51, wound up his competitive career in 1943.

TELEVISION PLANS

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 16 (AP)—A Harrisburg newspaper publisher plans to operate central New York's first television station. S. I. Newhouse announced Saturday that Radio Projects, Inc., which he heads—had asked the Federal Communications commissions for permission to operate the station here. Radio Projects, Inc., also has an application pending for the purchase of all the stock of Central New York Broadcasting corporation, operators of WSYR and WYAR-FM.

MULE MATMEN HAND BULLETS SECOND DEFEAT

Clyde Cole's Gettysburg college wrestlers dropped their second match of the season here Saturday afternoon when the Muhlenberg matmen scored a hard-earned 18-14 decision.

Only Joe Erb, 136, was able to gain a fall for the Bullets, pinning Sutton in 2:58 of the second period. Getz, 121; Amelio, 128, and Evans, 175, scored falls for the Mules.

Russ Riegel, 155, kept his unbeaten winning streak intact when he gained a 5-1 decision over Steinbach.

Next Saturday the Bullets will close their home season by meeting Bucknell here.

The results:

MANY SCHOOL TITLE RACES SETTLED NOW

By TOM SHRIVER

Harrisburg, Feb. 16 (AP)—The last two weeks of the regular scholastic basketball season started today with many titles already clinched, or about to be settled.

York was looking ahead to the first Central Penn conference crown in history of the school, with a win needed tomorrow against William Penn of Harrisburg to clinch a tie, and another win needed next week at Lancaster to clinch the honors.

Bethlehem, first half winner of the East Penn conference, faces a real test on Friday at Hazleton and a win for the home team may throw this league into a post-season playoff. If Bethlehem wins it is all over.

Williamsport Seems Sure

Old Forge won the first half crown in the Lackawanna Valley league and started the second half race in good shape. The Forgers have one of the strongest teams in the school's history and the fans look for another state title to match the 1932 crown.

Williamsport, following a 53-38 win over Plymouth on Saturday night, seems sure of the district four honors. The Millionaires have won 26 straight on their home floor. The season record stands 17-4, with the four defeats at Hazleton, Altoona, Plymouth, and Steelton.

Norristown made it 20 straight to clinch the section one crown in the Philadelphia Suburban league. Palmerton is making a strong bid for state-wide recognition, and Schuylkill Haven's streak will probably give them the South Schuylkill crown.

Trojans Meet Carlisle

One eastern headline will be played tomorrow night when Mahanoy City, first half champion of the Black Diamond league, and unbeaten in the second half, journey to Summit Hill to meet the unbeaten leaders of the second half crown.

Chambersburg, first half champion of the South Penn conference, clashes with the second half leaders at Carlisle tomorrow night, while Gettysburg, another contender, plays host to Shippensburg.

In the west Warren virtually clinched the section two crown in district ten with a 57-46 win over Oil City. Kane is making a last-ditch drive to win the Mountain league title in the upper end of district nine, while Punxsutawney's bid for the second half crown in the class A league was momentarily halted when Brookville took a 39-38 thriller. Clearfield won the first half crown in the A league.

Western Games

Westmont moved ahead of Indiana in the race for the Tri-County league honors and now faces Altoona tomorrow in an exhibition and winds up the league campaign at Ferndale on Friday.

In the WIPAL ranks McKeesport seeks a win at Donora tonight to clinch section six honors. The Tigers have already eliminated Duquesne, last year's western champions, and Homestead, 1946 western title-holder, from the sectional race.

Other WIPAL headliners find Ford City, section one leader, entertaining Arnold in a crucial test; Alliquippa, pace-setter in section three, at Farrell; and Wilkensburg, section eight's top ranking team playing host to Rankin.

Plan Seminar On Safety Education

Harrisburg, Feb. 16 (AP)—A five-day seminar on safety education, under the sponsorship of the Department of Public Instruction, opens here March 8.

Dr. Henry Klonower, the department's director of Teacher Education and Certification, said a selected group of college instructors will be invited to attend the seminar.

These college instructors will then pass on to high school teachers what they learn on safety methods on the highways and safe driving technique. Later the high school teachers will conduct classes on highway safety for high school students.

All expenses will be paid by cooperating agencies which include the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, the

TEMPLE'S BOBB SHATTERS TWO SCORING MARKS

Philadelphia, Feb. 16 (AP)—Forty Pennsylvania college basketball teams pranced up and down the hardwoods over the week-end, but a 5-foot-10 pointmaker named Nelson Bobb stole the show.

Bobb, who sank 29 points for Temple's losing five, shattered two scoring records. His 274-point total bested by 25 the previous record held by a Temple player when Mike Bloom tallied 249 in 1938.

At the same time, Bobb bested the Convention Hall scoring record held since 1944 by George Senesky, formerly of St. Joseph's and now of the Philadelphia Warriors. Bobb's Convention Hall total swelled to 222 points, 18 better than Senesky.

LaSalle, Mules Win

But despite Bobb's 29 points and Eddie Lerner's 21, Temple took an 81-75 beating from West Virginia and saw its chances for a post-season tournament bid go by the boards.

In the other half of the Convention Hall bill, LaSalle annexed its 15th victory in 17 tries by edging past St. Francis of Brooklyn, 53-52. Thus LaSalle joined Muhlenberg and Duquesne as Pennsylvania's leading contenders for post-season bids. Duquesne, humbled earlier in the week by Cincinnati, bounced back to defeat Morehead 60-51 for win No. 16 against two defeats.

Muhlenberg yaloped Navy 62-49 to capture its 14th against two losses. Waynesburg regained its winning ways by beating Bucknell 54-45 to capture its 12th in 15 games.

The two universities at either end of the state came through with victories. Pitt's 68-62 triumph over Westminster enabled the Panthers to even their season record at nine and nine. Penn, still shy of the 500 mark, won its third of eight Ivy league games by turning back Harvard 58-50.

Other Results

Penn State scored over the invading Depauw five with an easy 68-49 margin. Rhode Island State out-totaled St. Joseph's, 79-80 and Washington and Jefferson rolled up a 72-55 score over the Akron Good-years.

In important Middle Atlantic conference games, Lebanon Valley upset Albright 70 to 66 in an overtime struggle and Pennsylvania Military College swamped Swarthmore 80-46.

In three games involving Pennsylvania teams over the week-end, these were the results: Gettysburg, 53, Lafayette, 46; Shippensburg, 66, Slippery Rock, 49; Buffalo, 46, Allegheny, 45; St. Vincent, 65, Gannon, 49; Geneva, 78, Thiel, 34; Moravian, 67, Baltimore, 48; Rutgers, 81, Lehigh, 47; Edinboro, 51, Fredonia, 49; West Chester, 55, Lock Haven, 49; Franklin and Marshall, 67, Drexel, 66; East Stroudsburg, 51, Bloomsburg, 48; Delaware, 45, Ursinus, 40; Millersville, 72, Kutztown, 48; and Scranton, 44, St. Bonaventure, 42.

Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO
Fire: On Tuesday night, about 7 o'clock, our citizens were alarmed by the cry of "fire!" occasioned by the burning of a stable about half a mile from town, on the Baltimore pike, belonging to Mr. Samuel Miller. Several of the engines were immediately run to the fire, but arrived too late to accomplish any good. The building was entirely consumed.—Star.

Married: On Tuesday, the 15th inst., by the Rev. E. V. Gerhart, Mr. William Currens, to Miss Maria Cowmover—both of the vicinity of Gettysburg.

On Thursday, the 10th inst., near Kingston, Cumberland county, by Rev. A. Babb, Mr. Ezra M. Myers, of this county, to Miss Margaret E. Herman, of the former place.

On the 10th inst., by the Rev. O. O. McClean, Mr. Thomas C. Miller, Jr., formerly of this place, to Miss Martha Mary McCullough—both of Cumberland county.

On the 10th inst., by the Rev. John Ulrich, Mr. George Schmick, to Miss Emeline Bream—all of this county.

Grand Ball: The birth-night ball at Washington promises to be a splendid affair. Under the head of "lady patronesses" we find the names of Mrs. Polk, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Madison and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton. The Vice President and the members of the cabinet head the list of managers.

The Late Sabbath Convention: Resolutions were adopted at the Sabbath Convention held at Chambersburg on the 26th of January. Frederick Smith, Esq., of Chambersburg, presided; among the vice presidents were John McGinly, of Millersburg, and Thomas Warren, of Gettysburg. Wm. W. Paxton, Esq., of Gettysburg, was on the business committee.

Died: On Friday morning, Mrs. Mary Katherine Schmucker, daughter of Wm. Steenberger, Esq., deceased, of Shenandoah county, Va., and wife of Rev. S. S. Schmucker, D. D., of this borough, aged 40 years and 5 days.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Sales: Jacob Codori has sold a two-story brick house on North Stratton street, to Adam Shoemaker, for $900.

Solomon C. Miller has been appointed Policeman and Lamp-lighter for the Borough of Gettysburg.

Another Sudden Death: We have another sudden death to add in the long list—in the death of Mrs. Henry J. Fahnestock, (aged 30 years) of this place on Saturday, afternoon, . . . During the afternoon, intending to make some social calls, she went to her chamber to dress. Her continued absence induced one of her domestics to go to her room, which she found locked. Hearing heavy breathing, she became alarmed and Mr. Fahnestock, who was at the store, was sent for. He at once burst open the room, and found his wife lying on the floor dead. . . . Her death is attributed to heart disease, to which she was subject. She had prepared a letter for such contingency requesting certain disposition of her personal effects.

Mrs. Fahnestock was a lady of marked Christian character, and of more than ordinary culture, having been engaged in teaching for several years. Four months ago she came to Gettysburg a bride—on Tuesday her remains were consigned to Ever Green cemetery.

The funeral of ex-Governor Geary took place on Thursday. There was a large display of Military and civic societies. Senator McSherry was one of the pall-bearers. The funeral service was delivered by Rev. Mr. Robinson, of the Presbyterian church. The Knights Templar had charge of the remains and at the grave went through their imposing ritual. In Gettysburg from 12 to 1 o'clock, the bells were tolled, places of business closed and flags suspended at half-mast during the day—our citizens promptly complying with the request of the Battlefield Memorial Association.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GANDHI

One of the most amazing personalities who ever trod this earth is now removed from it—and in the most tragic manner. The entire world gasped, and bowed in grief, as he fell to the earth as the result of an assassin's bullet—while on his way to prayer!

Nearly ten years ago John Gunther wrote a most enlightening chapter about this remarkable man, in his book "Inside Asia." He said: "Mr. Gandhi, who is an incredible combination of Jesus Christ, Tammany Hall, and your father, is the greatest Indian since Buddha. Like Buddha, he will be worshipped as a god when he dies." Well, that is the literal truth. In fact, many during his life looked upon him as God and as a reincarnation of Christ. Certainly no leader for centuries seemed to embody in his actual life and works so much of the spirit of Christ. He was profoundly religious.

Gandhi will forever remain a controversial giant in human history. He trod at times an inconsistent path—but that path invariably led to the one objective of his life—interdependence of his people, and toward peace and good will for both his own nation and the world at large. It was the man's character that could move millions to his side merely by advocating non-violence. He was, however, as Mr. Gunther has written, a man of "paradoxes and contradictions."

Gandhi believed in a peaceful revolution, as Jesus did. It is significant that this modern saint probably drew from Jesus most of his inspiration. Especially was he influenced by the "Sermon on the Mount." He was also a student of Tolstoy and Thoreau. Gandhi was extraordinarily courageous, defying the greatest Empire upon earth, and yet later working with it! And like Lincoln, an assassin's bullet ended his career, just as the best of victory crept over the hills. Both martyrs. Both sure to be revered down the centuries. Both ruled through love. Both lived simply and humbly.

No man in history, during his lifetime, was so worshipped by millions of his kind as Gandhi. This, in itself, was a tribute to character. His mother, a very devout woman, greatly influenced his entire career. In his autobiography he referred to her "saintliness." Like Shaw, he was a confirmed vegetarian. But that simple diet undoubtedly added to his long life, even emaciated as he often was by his prolonged fasts. Now his ashes have been gathered and placed in "History's Golden Urn."

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will write on the subject: "Watchers."

THE GOOD FEELING

Whenever I've dreaded what ought to be done

And thought up excuses my duty to shun,

I've found when I've gone, though I wanted to stay,

I've always felt better when coming away.

The paths that are pleasant are easy to tread,

It's always the difficult journey I dread,

But whenever I've done what I wished to delay,

I've always felt better at close of the day.

I fancy we're all an excuse-making lot.

Time bids us to do what we'd much rather not;

But I know when I've made myself do what I should,

There's a glow in the heart and that feeling is good.

GROWING MUMS FROM SEED IS 'FASCINATING'

Growing chrysanthemums from seed is a fascinating occupation, says Gisela Grimm in the New York Herald Tribune. In the first place, there is the element of surprise, for each packet of seed will yield an almost unbelievable variety of forms and colors. In the second place, because the seed is inexpensive, one may have a gorgeous display of blooms in the garden and quantities for cutting as well for little cost and labor.

It must be remembered, however, that chrysanthemums do not come true to form from seed, and that if space is limited and one wants a certain color and form it is preferable to buy plants of some of the very fine named varieties offered by plant dealers.

Most seedmen offer seed of the Korean hybrid chrysanthemums, and if these are sown early in the spring they will produce blooming plants following fall. The Korean hybrids are a hardy strain of chrysanthemums which will bloom early enough to escape frosts; they are usually in full bloom from Oct. 1 to 15. The flowers are daisy-like, two to three inches across and of many beautiful colors.

From one packet of seed the writer has obtained a gorgeous display in many colors, no two exactly alike. They varied in color from white through bluish-pink to rose and red, all shades of yellow, and from apricot through henna to deep mahogany bronze. They varied in form from single and semi-double to almost double blooms.

Bloom in September
Seed houses also offer seed of Chrysanthemum September Jewels. This strain is particularly fine for the colder climates because it comes into bloom in September. The flowers are all daisy-like and appear in a wonderful range of beautiful colors.

These flowers are not at all difficult to grow from seed. The seed should be sown early, however, if one is to have good blooms the first season. It is best to sow in late March, either indoors or in the cold frame.

The seed is large and may be sown in shallow drills directly in the soil of the frame or in flats or pots if one prefers. In any case the seed should be sown thinly and covered lightly with soil. If the seedbed is kept moist and shaded the seed will germinate in about five days, as quickly as zinnias.

The seedlings grow so rapidly that within a few weeks they will begin to crowd one another; they should be transplanted to stand three to four inches apart. When the plants are four to five inches high the tips may be pinched out to induce them to branch. They are now large enough to be transplanted to carefully prepared beds in the open ground.

Plants grown from seed normally possess great vigor and grow rapidly. Nevertheless, good culture is necessary for them to do their best the first season. A sunny, sheltered place should be chosen and a good well-drained soil, deeply dug and enriched with a balanced plant food.

The plants will vary somewhat in habit of growth, but eighteen inches is a good average distance apart to plant them. The growth of the plants may be determined somewhat by pinching out the tips of the side shoots when they have developed to a length of five to six inches. This pinching, however, should not be continued later than the end of June.

These seedling chrysanthemums make a particularly fine showing when planted generously in bays in the shrubby border, along drives and in wide borders. They have been used with fine effect in

THINGS OF THE SOIL

Codling Moths Must Be Killed

Commercial apple growers recognize the seriousness of codling moth (apple worm) ravages and as the result of this knowledge pursue a systematic and scientific course of control. But most backyard apple growers or owners of small home-fruit orchards may easily overlook the importance of effective warfare against this major enemy of apples. Therefore, emphasis should be placed now on ways and materials for combating the codling moth later. Too, every apple tree owner should know the principal facts about the life cycle of this pest.

Codling moths are the most serious insect foes of the apple. Their larvae are responsible for most so-called wormy apples and for a large percentage of deformed fruits. In every case it is necessary to wage war on this enemy by several avenues, with study of its habits first on the program of combat.

The insect lives over winter as a dirty whitish grub or larva, encased in a silken cocoon fastened beneath apple tree bark, in tree crotches, in decaying limb stubs or in litter in or near the orchard. In early spring the larva passes through its transformation into pupa and then into the flying or parent moth. The moth is seldom seen around apple trees because it is active mainly in the evening. The female moth deposits her eggs on both the fruits and foliage, the first on foliage almost exclusively.

Larvae hatching from these first eggs may feed for a short time on the leaves and later enter the small apples mainly through the calyx or blossom ends. After feeding inside the fruits to almost full size, the worms either depart through the same hole by which they fed their way to the center of the apple or else they gnaw a new and larger exit out through the side of the fruit. Later broods develop to continue their attacks on the crop through June and into mid-summer. In most seasons the second brood may begin to hatch in 8 to 10 weeks after bloom petals drop.

Control measures take several forms, none of which should be ignored. Here are the main steps in effective combat:

1. Keep loose bark removed from apple trees in late winter and carefully burned to destroy the larva cocoons. Too, for the same reason practice cleanliness in and near the orchard.

2. Apply the full schedule of sprays recommended for apples, with particular emphasis on applications beginning with the petal-fall spray and continuing until after later broods have ceased to attack the fruit.

3. Encourage friendly birds to nest and rear their young in and near orchards and backyard trees, as several birds feed heavily on both the egg-laying moths and exposed worms.

4. To reduce the next year's moth population apply bands around trunks of apple trees when the first some of the large parts and public gardens.

When the plants are almost finished blooming, but while the form and color of the blossom can still be distinguished, it is a good plan to weed out the inferior plants and to label any of outstanding character. The plants are perfectly hardy and should survive the winter unprotected in well-drained soil.

brood of larvae begins to leave the fruits to pupate.

Of course, none of these recommendations should be deemed a satisfactory weapon alone. The time of applying the petal-fall spray is important. If applied before most of the bloom petals have dropped, bees will be poisoned at their vital work of transferring pollen; if delayed too long, the calyx cup will be so nearly closed that the larva will not be barred by the insecticidal deposit in the cup.

You've got the toughest job ahead of you this year in the history of farming. You've got to help feed and clothe the world. And you've got to do it—for the most part—without many new tools.

That means putting your tractors and farm machines in shape to do the job.

But you've got to do it in a hurry. If everyone waits until the last minute, to bring in their tractor for an overhaul job or to buy needed repair parts—then we'll be swamped and the whole program will bog down.

Right now we've got a pretty fair stock of repair parts. And our service department can take care of a few more overhaul jobs.

TORENIA GROWS IN SHADE, SUN

Torenia or Blue-wing Flower is a showy tender annual from Cochinchina which will give a profusion of blooms even if the grounds are decidedly shaded. It is equally satisfactory in full sun, just as long as it has abundant moisture without being kept so wet that the roots have no access to oxygen.

It likes a soil well supplied with humus. Fournieri is the most popular, providing large two-lipped flowers with a yellow throat and prominently marked with blue and rich velvety purple.

Torenia is not difficult to grow if care is taken in sowing the small seeds. If kept uniformly moist, there is no need to cover the seeds. The soil never should be permitted to dry out at the surface. A pane of glass over the seed pan and a piece of dark wrapping paper will accelerate germination.

Garden Activities For Mid-February

Pruning of fruit trees and grape vines may be done any time the weather is mild.

Examine dahlia tubers for signs of damping off and rot. Tender bulbs that have been stored for the winter must be protected from freezing.

Weak and straggling growth on house plants should be pinched back. Satisfactory temperature and air humidity are equally important to have sprouted, but place in a shaded window unless the containers are kept moderately moist by placing them in shallow dishes kept filled with water.

Transplant the seedlings to the garden after all danger of frost is past, taking care to preserve the roots and prevent crushing the tender growth.

Chapter 25
There was a stir in the hall outside Jigger's furnished room; Red entered.

"What'd you find out from Dixie?"
"A lot, and a lot more confusion as a result. Fowler was a schnook hooked up with Dixie in black market operations. Collected money for him or something. The fifty G's was a safety vault cache belonging to Dixie."

Red whistled. "And our friend the barber?"
"Dixie swore he never heard of him."

Jigger studied the effect of his tie. Then, "this much is certain. Red, Dixie and Fowler have been in communication since Fowler's release. Fowler got the dough out of the bank and handed it over to Dixie. All but two G's."

"The two G's you found on him?"
"Uh huh. Seems so."

Jigger got into his pocket. "Now—how'dja come out investigating the Big Fellow? Who is he?"

Red hesitated. "I'm a dope to tell you, I know. I'll only mean the overture to new complications." Excitedly, "C'mon, Red—give! Who is the ape?"

"A private shamus. Name's Ernie Cordner. Runs a one man detective agency along Park Row. Specializes in divorce evidence and matters matrimonial."

"Anything else?"
Evasively, "Nothing much."

Jigger looked reproachful. "What's got into you, Red? This is big! The whole case might hinge on this finding."

There was a netting quality in Red. "Look, super-sleuth. With Dixie plausibly out, the case can be resolved into murder and suicide. Get it? Simple murder and suicide—like Rawlings concedes. Figuring it that way, you can send the Big Fellow a thank you letter, enclosing a quarter for the haircut he gave you, and I can go back to that unfinished article."

Jigger, plucked a line out of the middle, registering disbelief. "Did you say Rawlings himself conceded murder and suicide as the post-mortem lowdown on the deaths of Marion Delacorte and Fowler? I didn't get that when I read the paper."

"It appeared in the later editions that way. A quote right out of Rawlings' mouth." Red urged, "What's good enough for the D.A. ought to be good enough for you."

Red was looking away. Jigger stepped into his line of vision.

Suspiciously, "Red, you're holding something back."

"You're dreaming."

"Your check-up on the Big Fellow—Ernie Cordner. It isn't natural for a fact-digger like you to stop at just identifying the guy. Come on—lemme have the rest of it."

Red was artless. "What rest there is, isn't much. A couple of neighbors in the taxpayer building where the Big Fellow has his office told me he gave them the willies—looked nuts to them. A girl secretary in a Loan Association next door said she carried a long knife in her bosom, expecting our friend to bust in and attack her any day. That's all—Red ended lamely. "The guy's just a big overgrown pituitary gland and scares little people."

Bertha was a costume exhibit behind museum glass in her going-down town black silks and plumed hat. Her eyes burned behind the thick-lensed glasses.

"Mrs. Fowler wants to see you. Something important, she said." Bertha crooked a finger commandingly. "I'm here to fetch you."

Surprised by this visit, Jigger drove to Scarsdale.

The twenty varieties of plants blew pleasant airs. The French windows looked over neighboring roofs into a cloudless sky.

Amenities, condolences. Then Jigger looked at Mrs. Fowler expectantly. He sensed she was having difficulty in controlling herself. There was a break in the normally delicate composure of her face—as though another grief, a new one, hadn't yet settled into its groove.

Red stood stiffly over to one side, thumbing through a book.

Jigger waited. Her lips were pressed together, her pantomime told she was fumbling for a method of speech. As she gestured, Jigger noted the wedding band.

She looked at her wrist and said with an effort, as though impatient with herself, "I'll go water my plants. Mr. Moran—and then we'll talk. I do it this time every day, faithfully. Would you mind?"

She rolled the course of the wall-long window-ledge with a flower-painted sprinkler can.

Now back in the center of the room, she looked full at him. The alabaster face was flushed.

"I've—been gathering courage to tell you something you should know."

Jigger said, "I appreciate the thought, Mrs. Fowler. A great deal."

Her eyes dropped. Talking quickly, "I lied to you the other day. I've lied all along about—Blaine."

"How did you lie? In what way?"

"About Blaine's innocence." There was an upward thrust of her chin.

"Blaine wasn't innocent. He was guilty. He murdered Marion Delacorte."

Jigger stared incredulously, his mind utterly rejecting what he had unmistakably heard.

"What game is this?"

"It's the truth. Blaine killed her. I lied."

"But your court testimony?"

Her tones were barely audible. "I—perjured—"

His mind worked furiously.

"Why?"

"For Blaine. He seemed so frightened, so helpless. He needed befriending so—so terribly."

Jigger thought, then looked up. "About the clock—the hall clock. How is it you and your late husband worked up an alibi around a clock without a pendulum?"

"The clock had a pendulum, Mr. Moran."

"Then the mysteriously missing pendulum remains a mystery?"

No answer. She seemed faraway, no longer absorbed in that problem. The curtain had gone down on the vexing drama of the missing pendulum. Jigger concluded that to her it now seemed as irrelevant and meaningless as her attempt to help her husband.

She looked at her wrist, focusing with difficulty.

"It's late and I'm dreadfully tired."

They touched fingers in goodbye. Red bowed awkwardly.

Chapter 26

The Chatwick, a four story walk-up, was one of an identical litter of buildings filling half a city block.

Jigger nestled the Imperial against the curb and turned the motor off.

On the sidewalk he stopped to adjust the brim of his hat, mirrored in the bright simonize of a tan Chevrolet coupe. It was the faintest scratching in his consciousness; but the delayed reaction did not seize him until a fingertip away from the nest of doorbells. Jigger swung around staring.

A tan Chevrolet coupe! It was the Big Fellow's car!

Jigger scrambled for the Imperial, started it up, splayed out in rapid, concerted motions—then pounded through a string of dirty streets. He parked it in a line of cars on a side street and half walked, half ran back to the Chatwick to watch for the Big Fellow's exit.

Loitering in a hallway across the street a dozen hostile stares from incoming tenants later, the Big Fellow loomed in his vision.

For an instant the Big Fellow was motionless, framed in the doorway.

A name card under the bell button read: Kirsten Chandler, 2R.

Jigger pushed it. The buzz droned emptily inside.

Passing seconds. No answer.

A gingerly twist to the doorknob; his knee pressing gently, firmly against the door. It was unlocked.

Jigger pushed forward boldly and walked in.

She was lying face downward, wearing a rumpled cotton dress that divided her thighs in the middle.

Her legs were tensed, her toes bored into the purple velvet sofa. The sobs were waves billowing the cotton fabric around the shoulders and back.

The sobs were deep, seemed to rise from the springs of the sofa.

The room had been sacked. It was an upheaval of spilled drawers, gaping cupboard doors, flung papers. A trunk upholstered into a window.

Istanbul was formerly known as Byzantium and as Constantinople.

seat was overturned in the center of the floor, its contents of shoeboxes, letters, keepsakes, winter clothing, in a pile beside it. The upholstery had been slashed to ribbons.

The Big Fellow had searched for something with a singleminded tenacity of purpose.

Jigger put light fingers to her shoulder, calling out his name.

She fell back and lay heaving her breath, her mouth twitching spasmodically, her swollen eyes fixed blindly on him.

Jigger studied her compassionately. The jet brunette with the perfect profile had been through an ordeal with sound effects dubbed in by the Big Fellow's enormous hands. There was a raised lump the size of an egg on her brow spaced between her eyes, welts on her cheeks and neck.

Her eyes blinked, straining to focus. Then a convulsive shudder as though she was awaking at the moment of a fearful climax to a bad dream.

Jigger smiled reassuringly.

"You've been through something, you poor kid."

Her voice cried, "He was a—a madman!"

Jigger nodded. "That phrases it. I've had a first hand sampling myself."

Jigger crossed and dropped on the sofa beside her. She wavered, moved restlessly under his look.

"Look, kid. Listen and don't answer until you've heard me out." He held his pack of cigarettes out to her. She took one avidly, bent over the lighted match, and shifted her position, widening the island between them.

"Now—I hope what I've got to say will demonstrate how our interests tie in. Or at least how they can be complementary. Take your late visitor—the Big Fellow—first. He's in this game opposed to us—both of us. He's trailed me everywhere, beaten the hell out of me, warned me to fold my tent and go away. He's also given you pretty much of the same, and shut you up tighter than a clam. Only with you he's obviously after something more tangible than just warning you off. He was here searching for something." Jigger eyed her for a reaction. "Perhaps he found it."

There was no reaction.

Jigger continued. "That development suggests you didn't just happen to be with Healey on matters theatrical any more than I just happened to pop in to ask for a match. Healey was a juror in the Blaine Fowler case, a juror who collapsed during deliberations, causing a mistrial that freed Fowler for his death a few days later. And to conclude—that lump on your head puts you right at the top of my case of characters in the story of the Marion Delacorte murder. The Big Fellow doesn't go around beating people up without rhyme or reason. Now—is there something you want to add at this point?"

She shook her head.

"Okay, sister. You can sit keeping faith with your attacker. Just listen some more." Now roughly, "Blaine Fowler was accused of murdering Marion Delacorte as the outcome of a sordid business of lust and hate. I've been slugging through the case, am up to my neck in it. Up to my neck to the extent that the District Attorney is threatening to indict me for meddling. Jigger moved to where he could trade looks with her. "You fit somewhere in the jigsaw. It's only a matter of time, and I'll know exactly where."

There was a pause. Now she was staring at him in thought.

"You said the District Attorney has threatened to indict you?"

"Uh, huh. If I didn't get out of the Fowler case, for some reason Rawlings didn't want me mixed up in it." Jigger looked intently at her. "And for some reason you did want me mixed up in it—yesterday. Doesn't that tie us in together?"

A pause. Jigger said, "Rawlings and the madman are on the same team. I've discovered that. That is, practically."

Her head went up and down. Al- most whispering, "I know."

It was a blessed wedge in a thick, impenetrable wall. Jigger's voice rose. "Then we have something definitely in common. Now will you open the hell out of me, warned me to fold my tent and go away. He's also given you pretty much of the same, and shut you up tighter than a clam. Only with you he's obviously after something more tangible than just warning you off. He was here searching for something." Jigger eyed her for a reaction. "Perhaps he found it."

QUADS ARRIVE EARLY BUT OK; 3 GIRLS, BOY

Latrobe, Pa., Feb. 6 (P)—The Zavada quadruplets—three girls and a boy whose coming was forecast by x-ray last November—entered their second day of life today, apparently "doing just fine."

The babies, not expected until April, were delivered by Caesarean section yesterday to Mrs. Barbara Wagner Zavada, 26-year-old wife of a metal works inspector.

The four infants, weighing a total of 13½ pounds, were born within five minutes while their father, Andrew, 35, mopped his brow in the waiting room of the Latrobe general hospital.

Dr. J. Wiley Hartman, chief obstetrician, who attended Mrs. Zavada aided by four other doctors, said the boy was delivered first, just 5 minutes after Mrs. Zavada had been wheeled into the operating room.

A half hour after the babies' birth, Father Theodore Hodobay of St. Mary's Greek Catholic church came to the hospital to christen the children John Michael, Bernadette Elizabeth, Barbara Rose and Anna Mary.

Rockefeller's New Father-In-Law Works On In Coal Mine Today

Washington, Pa., Feb. 16 (P)—Julius Paulekas' thoughts today are far from the coal mine where he is working as usual.

The 60-year-old miner has been the toast of this mining community since he learned his daughter, Eva, married Winthrop Rockefeller Saturday at Palm Beach, Fla.

News of his daughter's wedding, however, hasn't changed Paulekas' outlook one bit.

"I'm a coal miner," he said yesterday, "and will die a coal miner."

Latrobe today apparently was five-year-old Larry Dale McBryer, Mrs. Zavada's son by a previous marriage, who had expected his mother to bring him two brothers and two sisters.

Mrs. Zavada's first husband, Harold McBryer, was killed in the Normandy invasion in 1944. She married Zavada in August, 1946.

Too much money is good for Eva but no good for me." Paulekas, who was known as Jieve Paulekite when he first came to the United States from Lithuania 40 years ago, learned of his daughter's wedding plans when he saw her picture in a Pittsburgh newspaper.

Paulekas said he and Eva's mother, now Mrs. Peter Neveckas, of Lowell, Ind., parted 28 years ago in Chicago. He hasn't seen Eva since 1932 when she visited him in Chicago, Paulekas said.

Honest, I Didn't Know USED FATS WERE STILL BADLY NEEDED!

Lady, where have you been? Used fats are needed now more than ever, because the shortage of fats and oils today is the greatest in the world's history. Our government warns us that the supply simply cannot meet today's industrial needs. You can help prevent this supply from getting too low by continuing to turn in your used fats.

You say you re-use them for cooking! Fine! But even the drops left after that are worth salvaging. Then how about melting down fat trimmings, skimming gravies? Those tricks yield plenty!

And come to think of it, what other kitchen waste can you convert into good hard cash? It's a point to remember, these days of high food costs! You know, prices butchers pay for used fats are up, on the average. So please... don't throw your fats away. Save 'em, and turn 'em in!

NEXT WAR MAY BE DECIDED IN FIRST 60 DAYS "IKE" DECLARES

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—If war comes to America again, the first 60 days will decide the winner, Dwight D. Eisenhower said today. Eisenhower, now an elder military statesman, said so in his farewell report as army chief of staff.

The general took a look at matters diplomatic as well as military, however, in writing his final official statement.

He saw the European recovery plan, fathered by Secretary of State Marshall, as vital to "our sister democracies" and to us.

Eisenhower did not mention Russia by name but he said:

1. If the western European countries were to "become the pawns of totalitarianism, America's security would be in dire danger."

"War Would Be Close"

2. If the democracies of the Mediterranean area should fall and that corridor between east and west were blocked, "the effects would be instant and catastrophic. War, in such case, would be close to us," Eisenhower declared.

Looking down the purely military road, he predicted:

"Because major nations, in the future, will be armed with weapons of terrifying destructive power, a series of lightning blows might conceivably end a future war at its outset. In such case, the resulting peace would not be cursed with social chaos produced by widespread devastation of the enemy's land and internal facilities for living."

"Only Feasible Solution"

"A corollary to this is the need for a system of major and alternate or secondary bases around which can be organized, first our own defense against air attack, and next our retaliatory counteroffensive."

"This concept, featuring as it does the hope that in air power resides the possibility of avoiding long drawn out and costly land operations, nevertheless and inescapably requires the availability of effective land forces; without them, we will have no bases and can seize none speedily. We would be wide open to attack and helpless to do anything positive about it."

Eisenhower said that on any future day of emergency and mobilization this country would need a ground army of 1,300,000 men. But to maintain a regular army of this size would be "prohibitively expensive," he said. Thus the "only feasible solution is to build the National Guard and organized reserves" to required strength.

Brawl Opens Cab Drivers' Strike

Pittsburgh, Feb. 16 (AP)—A street corner brawl and gunfire marked the start of a strike of 1,100 drivers of the Yellow Cab company.

Mayor David L. Lawrence yesterday ordered full police protection for all cabs answering emergency calls after a brawl had been reported on a downtown street corner. Police said one shot rang out during the fight but no one was injured.

The strike, called by Local 128, Taxicab Drivers union, against the Yellow Cab company, does not affect the Peoples Cab company or the Owl Taxi company.

President George Steding said the union is asking that drivers' commissions be raised from 45 to 54 per cent. The company said it could not meet the demand because it is losing money.

DUFF STAND ON MARSHALL PLAN SURPRISES GOP

Philadelphia, Feb. 16 (AP)—Governor James H. Duff's blanket endorsement of the Marshall plan has Republican circles buzzing with speculation today.

The Pennsylvania chief executive went all-out in an appeal for support of the European recovery program fostered by Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

Speaking at the Temple university founders gathering Saturday, Duff voiced a belief that was in sharp contrast to the highly critical approach to the Marshall plan taken last week by Sen. Edward Martin, nominal GOP leader in Pennsylvania.

Duff declared that Americans should give Marshall—"one of the most dependable public servants the nation has ever had"—the same support they gave him as "one of the ablest military men."

Opposite Views
Martin, Pennsylvania's favorite son GOP Presidential nominee candidate, told a Chicago audience that "the Marshall plan in its present form is not the answer."

Political observers noted the marked difference in the two addresses and wondered:

Which way will the pivotal Pennsylvania 73-man delegation headed by Duff go at the GOP national convention here in June.
Duff's speech sounded more like the philosophies of Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota. They appeared in divergence with the views expressed by Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, and Governor Thomas E. Dewey, of New York.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, March 18, following the Lutheran Lenten service. The topic for the day, "The United Nations—Why Support it?" was discussed by Mrs. Roscoe Klinefelter and Miss Hylda Klinefelter.

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Sponseller, Frederick, were guests on Sunday evening of Rev. and Mrs. John C. Brumbach, East King street. Dr. Sponseller is teacher of Biblical literature and philosophy at Hood college.

A varied program of dancing, table tennis, chess and checkers was enjoyed at the weekly meeting of the Littlestown Youth Center, Saturday evening in the fire hall. ## TELLS MAYORS 'HCL' CRUCIAL

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—President Truman, appealing to the mayors of 250 American cities to back his anti-inflation program, says that unless the rise in the cost of living is checked permanently, "the living standards of millions of families will be critically endangered."

In a message yesterday to the United States Conference of Mayors, opening here today, the President urged that Congress act to curb inflation and enact a long-range housing bill.

"The sharp rise in the cost of living index points to the undermining of our whole economy," the President's message said.

Writing to Mayor George W. Welsh, of Grand Rapids, Mich., president of the conference, Mr. Truman declared: "You and your colleagues know from first-hand experience that the financial stability of our city governments is being threatened by increased costs resulting from inflation. I have submitted to the Congress specific recommendations designed to curb inflationary factors, and action by the Congress is necessary if we are not to suffer still further from inflation."

Immediate steps must also be taken to increase the nation's supply of low-cost housing. The enactment of a broad long-range housing bill is long overdue. Such a bill is necessary if the Federal government is to

WATCH STATE FOR GOP SPLIT

(By The Associated Press)
Politicians kept a sharp eye on Pennsylvania today. They want to know what a split among Republican leaders there over the Marshall plan may mean at the GOP national convention in June.

In other political developments over the weekend:
Senator Taft (R-Ohio) headed back to Washington, "extremely encouraged" by his six-state hunt for convention support.

Henry A. Wallace said the Democratic high command "is scared to death" over his third party Presidential candidacy. The former Vice President told a labor rally in New York yesterday that is what he thinks is behind Mayor William O'Dwyer's recent suggestion that Wallace return to the Democratic fold.

Chairman Carroll Reece of the Republican national committee, said a two-party system would help the south prevent "infringements upon civil liberties."

And Georgia Democrats postponed their Jackson Day dinner from March 5 to March 9. They thereby raised a new question whether National Chairman J. Howard McGrath would speak as scheduled.

The Pennsylvania Republican split developed when Gov. James H. Duff called for all-out support for the European recovery program which bears the name of Secretary of State Marshall.

Senator Edward Martin, the state's favorite son candidate for the Presidential nomination, had said in Chicago earlier last week that the

CIO Union Officer Nabbed As Red Alien

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Federal agents today arrested Ferdinand Christafer Smith, national secretary of the CIO National Maritime union, as an alien Communist.

Smith, a native of Jamaica, British West Indies, was removed to Ellis Island without bond for deportation proceedings, the Justice Department announced.

The arrest was made by immigration service officials and FBI agents when Smith left his home in New York city this morning, the announcement said.

A warrant charged he entered the country without visa, and had been before and after his entry, "a member of an organization advocating the overthrow of the government of the United States by force and violence."

"Marshall plan in its present form is not the answer," Martin accused the State Department of "deal, double-deals and double-cross deals."

PRICE SAG MAY BOOST AID PLAN

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—The sag in farm prices may mean more votes in Congress for the Marshall plan. And the way some lawmakers size things up, there may be fewer demands to slash the size of the aid-to-Europe program.

Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio) predicted to a reporter: "The farmers will be screaming for the Marshall plan in a few weeks. With prices down at home, our export markets are going to look a lot better, even though we finance them."

Vorys is a member of the foreign affairs committee. It expects to keep hearings on foreign aid going until the end of the month.

The Senate foreign relations committee has finished its hearings and is nearly ready to send a bill to the floor for debate.

What the administration asked was that Congress authorize a four and a quarter year program to help western European nations repair the economic damage of the war. It asked $5,800,000,000 for the first 15 months, starting April 1.

The Senate committee said yes to the four and a quarter year plan and agreed to fix the figure at $5,300,000,000 for the first 12 months.

Havana Remembers Sinking of Maine

Havana, Cuba, Feb. 16 (AP)—They "remembered the Maine" here yesterday.

Thousands—Cubans and Americans—assembled at the marble shaft commemorating those who died when the U. S. Battleship Maine went down in Havana harbor 60 years ago.

The sinking of the Maine provided the spark which started the Spanish-American war and eventually brought independence to Cuba. The explosion which sent her down never has been satisfactorily explained.

War veterans from both countries attended the ceremonies, at which President Ramon Grau San Martin was the political speaker. U. S. Ambassador R. Henry Norweb and Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N. M.) also spoke.

U. S. GENERAL NAMED TO GREEK DEFENSE GROUP

Athens, Feb. 16 (AP)—U. S. Maj. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, who is coming to Greece to head American military groups, has been made a member of the Greek National Defense Council.

An official Greek announcement said the heads of both the U. S. and British military missions had joined the council. As such they will have a say in planning the fight against Communist guerrillas and composition of the Greek army.

Previously U. S. and British commanders were only observers at the council.

Van Fleet has been assigned command of all American navy, army and air forces attached to the U. S. mission in Greece.

Maj. Gen. William G. Livesay, chief of the U. S. military mission, will remain as overall commander, but will concentrate on problems of military supply.

Grissold Is Observer. Dwight Grissold, administrator of the American mission to aid Greece, will attend the council meeting as an observer. Grissold controls the disbursement of American aid funds.

Maj. Gen. E. E. Downs, commander of British troops in Greece, will be British representative on the council. Observers said the step was designed to prevent political moves such as the recent resignation of Lt. Gen. Constantine Ventiris, commander of Greece's northern army.

British and U. S. commanders both protested the relief of Ventiris, whom they described as "the best soldier in Greece."

Premier Themistokles Sophoulis and Vice Premier Constantinos Tsaldaris rejected the protests, saying Ventiris' resignation had already been accepted.

Wolf R. 1, a senior at Manchester high and York county champion; sixth place, Sylvia Trout, 15, Newport R. D., a sophomore at Newport Union high school and Perry county title.

Approximately 300 girls in home economics classes in six counties took part in eliminations leading to the state contest, William M. Lott, Gardner R. 1, president of the Pennsylvania Cherry Growers association, announced. The contest this year was one of the most successful in the state's history, Doctor Sanders said in a brief talk given when she announced the results of the judges' findings. Stating she was "very proud of you and of your teachers," Doctor Sanders added that "we have no doubt Pennsylvania's champion will also be the champion at Chicago."

Winner Going to White House. Miss Burgard's pie was superior to the others in taste, consistency and crust, the judges said.

First prize in the national contest will be $200 cash plus a chaperoned trip to the White House in Washington, D. C., The National Red Cherry Institute, which is sponsoring the contest on a nation-wide scale, has announced. In the state contest the first prize was the trip to Chicago for the winner and her chaperone. The other five prizes were cash awards starting at $20 for second place and ranging down to $5 for sixth place.

The state winner gave credit to her mother and her home economics teacher after being informed she had won the title. Her mother taught her how to bake pies before she started to school, Miss Burgard said in admitting that she has "baked lots and lots of cherry pies." She also added the statement that her mother is a better pie baker than she.

AGED CARDINAL PIGNATELLI, 96, EXPIRES TODAY

By PHIL CLARKE

Vatican City, Feb. 16 (AP)—Genaro Cardinal Pignatelli Di Belmonte, 96, second only to Pope Pius XII in the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic church, died today of a bladder ailment complicated by old age.

Cardinal Pignatelli, who was a prince of the Italian aristocracy as well as a prince of the church, expired at 10:13 a. m. (4:13 a. m. EST) in his simply furnished apartment in the historic Vatican church of Santa Martha.

He had known five popes in his long life and had been an intimate of the present Pontiff and his predecessor. He had been dean of the College of Cardinals for nearly 18 years.

Next Dean Uncertain
Frances Cardinal Marchetti-Selvaggi, 76, Bishop of Frascati, vicar general of Rome, and Archbishop of the Basilica of St. John Lateran, succeeds Cardinal Pignatelli as cardinal dean. Cardinal Marchetti-Selvaggi, a native of Rome, has been a cardinal since 1930.

Vatican authorities, however, said there was some doubt as to whether the state of his health would permit him to assume actively the duties of dean of the College of Cardinals. He was reported suffering from an illness affecting his legs.

These informants said it was possible Enrico Cardinal Sibilla, 87, bishop of Savino and Poggio Mirto, and next in order of precedence, might succeed Cardinal Pignatelli as dean. Cardinal Sibilla, has been a prince of the church since Dec. 1935. Sincerely robed officials of the

FLOOD CRESTS DROP IN MOST PERILED AREAS

(By The Associated Press)
The crests of river floods, which took seven lives in three states last week, rumbled oceanward today, diminishing the menace upstream but intensifying it along down stream lowlands.

Hundreds of families who fled before the high water, especially in Tennessee, began to return to their mud-encrusted homes and places of business. A much smaller number were evacuated as the crests swirled downstream.

church stood quietly in the darkened room, lit only by tall tapers, as he breathed his last.

His death reduced the membership of the College of Cardinals to 60. Its full strength is 70.

Cardinal Pignatelli, second in rank only to Pope Pius XII in the hierarchy of the church, was stricken with a bladder ailment last week. Because of his great age little hope had been held for his recovery.

Pope Pius gave him last Saturday and his blessing and a message of sympathy. Extreme unction also was administered Saturday. He fell into a coma last night.

300 Families Chased

The turbulent Cumberland river was reported receding at Nashville, Tenn., after cresting at 49.5 feet, 2.5 feet short of an expected high mark. It still rose, however, at Carthage, Clarksville and Hartsville, sending muddy streams into low-lying streets.

Elsewhere in Tennessee the flood spectre waned.

The danger likewise diminished in Kentucky, West Virginia, Ohio and Indiana. Five persons had lost their lives from the floods in West Virginia and one each in Indiana and Mississippi.

The surging Tombigbee yesterday drove 300 families from their homes in northeast Mississippi near Columbus. Across the state at Vicksburg, swollen waters still strained levee bulwarks in the delta, but the outlook was reported improved.

The nation generally was treated to a pleasant, mild brand of weather today. The midwest, in particular, had more welcome surcease from the recent prolonged cold weather with temperatures expected to climb to 45 degrees or higher, the warmest of the year in the area.

NEW AUTO FAN

Detroit, Feb. 16 (AP)—Ford Motor company announced today its engineers have developed an automobile radiator fan that operates only when needed. Operation and speed of the fan are controlled by a thermostat in the radiator hose. The Ford announcement said tests show that in cold weather the fan seldom turns on.

An automobile that can stop in 21 feet at 20 miles an hour on a concrete road requires 169 feet to stop on glare ice.

Sheppard and company team from the Hanover Community league Thursday night in the Littlestown high school gym, instead of Taneytown, as previously announced. The girls' team from Littlestown will play the Community Center team of Hanover, also on Thursday night. The games with the Taneytown teams will be played Thursday, February 26.

Literary Display

At both masses on Sunday morning, the pastor, the Rev. Fr. John H. Weber, called attention to the display of Catholic literature in the show window of John Redding's barber shop, South Queen street. This display was arranged by the St. Aloysius Parish Council NCCW in observance of Catholic press month. Included in the display is a children's book section; an assortment of pamphlets on a variety of subjects; books and pamphlets on marriage and the family as well as religious books and many Catholic novels.

A five-book set of Quentin Morrow Phillips' short stories will be given away. Those interested are requested to write their name and address on a slip of paper and place it in a box provided for that purpose at the Redding barber shop or the Littlestown branch of the Adams County Free Library.

Lenten services will be held on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. There will be a short sermon and the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The adult class in religious instruction will follow the service on Tuesday night. There will be Stations of the Cross and Benediction, Friday at 7:30 p. m. Daily mass will be held at 8 a. m. with Holy Communion at 7:05 a. m. The children will attend the mass and recite rosary and the litany. A five-minute instruction follows the mass. Next Sunday morning, a special offering will be received by the Sisters of St. Augustine, several of whom will be present. This offering will be for the orphan children in their missions in the Philippine Islands and China. The order has in its charge about 14,000 homeless children in the Philippines alone.

Boy and Girl Scout night will be observed at the scout meeting of the Littlestown Rotary club Tuesday at 6:15 p. m. in Schott's banquet hall, South Queen street. The community service committee will be in charge. This committee includes Richard A. Little, chairman, Dr. Donald B. Coover, William V. Sneeringer, H. G. Blocher, Dr. Joseph R. Riden, Walter F. Crouse and Preston Myers.

FARM CALENDAR

Care for Colt — To develop into a thrifty animal, the colt needs good care during his first winter, says C. A. Burge, Penn State livestock extension specialist. He recommends liberal feeding of the colt and the control of lice which can impair health and growth.

Feed Calves Carefully — Overfeeding may result when the newborn calf nurses freely from the mother, says J. C. Nageotte, Penn State extension dairy specialist. He suggests feeding the calf with the now-familiar calf-nursing bottle with nipple.

Exercise the Ewes — To produce strong lambs the ewes need plenty of exercise in the open, points out W. B. Connell, livestock extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State college.

Here And There News Collected At Random

Order of Moose. There they met an 82-year old man who is spending his last years at the Home. He told them:

"I would like to recall to your mind the fact that all of the members of this Home have traveled down that Great Highway. I don't mean the Dixie Highway; I mean the Great Highway of Life that leads from Youth to Old Age. And as they traveled down that Highway they encountered many obstacles they could not surmount. They stumbled into many pitfalls they could not avoid. And as they sit here today and look back into the past their minds revert to Moose Heart where the children of departed Brothers are being trained in body and educated in mind, and the thought comes to us that if we had received in our youth this training we could perhaps have been more successful in our journey down that Great Highway.

"It is not the fault of the Moose that we have been failures but it is to the Moose that we must give credit that we have the privilege of spending our last days in this wonderful Home."

The United States Post Office
Department has again voiced opposition to the issuance of a stamp to commemorate the 85th anniversary of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

In a letter to Senator William Langer, chairman of the Senate Committee on Civil Service which is considering the Congressional resolution authorizing a Lincoln-Gettysburg commemorative stamp, Postmaster General J. M. Donaldson wrote as follows:

"The Department is not unmindful of the importance of the eighty-fifth anniversary of this memorable occasion. I believe its commemoration should be observed annually in every possible manner. However, the number of commemorative stamps that can be approved each year is restricted to comparatively few issues by the limited production facilities of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The program to which the Department is already committed will tax the manufacturing equipment of that Bureau to capacity for some time to come.

"It is only for the compelling reasons shown that the Department feels it should not make a favorable report on this Joint Resolution at this time."
